Storm Clouds Clash with Setting Sun

PHOTO SUBMITTED

Around 9:30 p.m. on Thursday, July 7th, the setting sun and a brewing storm merged to create this dramatic scene above Consort Golf Club at Gooseberry Lake.

Golfers out for Ladies Night on July 7th were off the course and enjoying time on the clubhouse deck when a storm rolled in and dropped sheets of rain. The deck cleared off quickly as golfers took shelter inside for the brief but exciting thunderstorm.

Thunder rattled windows in Consort that same evening and residents were treated to a pretty good lightning show as the storm cell moved through.

Earlier in the day, Oyen area residents were pounded by golf ball size hail that did major damage to houses, vehicles and crops. With daytime temperatures now climbing to more seasonal highs, more storms can be expected to pop up.
